

QUESTION ARREST OF GENERAL ROSSI EXILED ITALIAN

Former Fascist Leader
Lured Over Border
And Nabbed

Paris, August 31—(AP)—International complications were thought possible today due to the arrest of General Cesare Rossi, exiled former Fascist leader, on what was termed a "sentimental journey" just over the Italian border from Switzerland.

Some Swiss dispatches questioned the regularity of the capture of the man who with Mussolini and two others organized the famous march on Rome, and later fled from Italy. It is reported that Rossi was seized at Campione, where it is said no Italian visa is necessary for a visit, and was taken to the jail at Dan Donino.

There are various versions as to how Rossi was "enticed" across the border. Some say a woman Fascist agent lured him there. Others state that Italian agents rented an apartment in Lugano, Switzerland, and organized on Swiss territory an excursion to a villa they had rented across the frontier. Rossi and the woman joining in the excursion.

It is not clear whether the woman was a party to the plot.

WOMAN ALSO TAKEN

Rome, Aug. 31—(AP)—A Stefani news agency dispatch from Como says General Cesare Rossi, Italian political exile, was arrested at Campione after having entered Italian territory clandestinely.

A woman, Marguerite Durand, who accompanied Rossi, also was arrested, the dispatch says.

It is believed here that the real name of the woman arrested with General Rossi is Margherita Rurante. She was closely associated with him during and after his trial in connection with the Matteotti assassination. It is thought that she adopted the French version of her name after she escaped from Italy and took up her residence in France about the time that General Rossi followed a similar course.

GET RECORDS OF GRAFT PAYMENTS BY LIQUOR RING

Say That Bootleg Ring
Banked $10,000,000
In Seven Years

the heels of disclosures that enormous sums have been paid police officials and policemen by the bootleggers ring for protection, District Attorney John Monaghan announced today that he would not only reveal the names of the recipients of the alleged bribes, but that arrests would be made.

He indicates these arrests would come after his detectives had checked up on information derived from records seized in the offices of Marks, Weinberg and Company public accountants, by order of the grand jury which in investigating the connection between bootlegging and gang murders in this city.

Philadelphia, August 31—(AP)—Records of great payments in black and white today linked police officers and police officials to a bootlegging ring which is credited with banking $10,000,000 in seven years.

These records were revealed in the books of Marks, Weinberg & Co., public accountants, seized by District Attorney Monaghan last Wednesday to aid the grand jury in its investigation of gang warfare in Philadelphia.

The District Attorney in a statement said:

"An investigation of the accounts of the bootlegging concerns whose audits and records were subpoenaed for the grand jury from the offices of a firm of accountants show that these records disclose enormous sums paid to police officers and police officials."

The investigation, in charge of the district attorney, was begun by the grand jury after the shooting within a week of Hugh McCool, cafe proprietor, and Daniel Joseph O'Leary, reputed gang leader and at the time of his death sought in connection with the death of McCool.

A round up of gangsters and men connected with the bootlegging ring was one of the first acts of police who in turn were among the first to be interviewed by the grand jury.

DUBLIN EXTENDING ITSELF TO HONOR SEC. KELLOGG

State Banquet Last Night
Was Remarkable Gathering

Dublin, August 31—(AP)—Citizens of Dublin are making the stay of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Kellogg a memorable one. The American Secretary of State and party probably will remain in Dublin till Monday, going then in the cruiser Detroit to Cernobur to take the Leviathan for New York.

The state banquet held in Mr. Kellogg's honor at the Shelburne Hotel last night was the most remarkable gathering of its kind since the Free State was established. The attendance included every man high in the country's service who was present in Dublin. All were presented to the Secretary and he had a friendly word for each. Among the guests was the singer, John McCormack.

Nearly three thousand guests participated in the reception and ball at the Plaza, Dublin's largest hall which followed the banquet.

Enthusiastic crowds have greeted the visiting statesman every time he has appeared in public since his arrival at Kingstown yesterday morning aboard the cruiser Detroit, which also brought President Cosgrave from France where the two signed the Kellogg-Brand pact in behalf of their respective nations.

Shortly after reaching Dublin from Kingstown Mr. Kellogg was presented with a scroll printed in the native Irish and in English, giving him the freedom of the city. He then paid a visit to Governor General James McNeill at the viceregal lodge.

President Cosgrave himself issued the invitations to the banquet, which was attended by leaders of every party in the Dail with the exception of E. J. Murnaghan who is in Berlin. An invitation was sent to the latter's chief lieutenant, Sean Lemass.

SOVIET RUSSIA WILL SIGN ON KELLOGG PACT

Moscow, Aug. 31—(AP)—Soviet Russia has consented to adhere to the Kellogg-Brand renunciation of war pact.

Acting Foreign Commissar Litvinoff today handed to the French Ambassador the answer of the Soviet government to the invitation extended through France that Soviet Russia adhere to the pact.

The note says that while the pact is vague and without provisions for disarmament, yet "it does impose certain obligations upon the countries before the bar of public opinion and simultaneously gives the Soviet union a new possibility of submitting to the signatory nations questions of the greatest importance to the cause of peace—that of disarmament—which is the one and only guarantee against war."

Mrs. Joe Crawford motored to Whitewater, Wisconsin Tuesday on business.

NEWSPAPERS GIVEN PRAISE FOR HELP TO AGRICULTURE

Say That Newspapers Are Greatest Force in Informing Farmer

By FRANK I. WELLER
(Associated Press Farm Editor)
Baton Rouge, La., Aug. 31—(AP)—Surrounded by prize winning posters, pamphlets and other publications composed to exert wide farm appeal, the American Association of Agricultural College Editors halted in the closing hours of their annual convention today to pay tribute to the nation's newspapers.

"If we were called upon to choose between the public press and all the other aids to agricultural extension," said J. B. Hasselman, the association's president, "we would select the newspapers without a moment's hesitation. They are our greatest ally and the most powerful force in advancing current farm information."

Editors from the thirty states represented at the convention recalled outstanding benefits farmers had proclaimed from the publication of informative farm news in their local papers.

Charles E. Gopen, chief of the press service, U. S. Department of Agriculture declared the interests and cooperation of the press had elevated the type and influence of information prepared for the farmers by state and federal agencies.

"The newspapers have shown us," he explained, "that our subject matter can be written in concise and direct form, brief enough to insure wide publication and still comprehensive enough to effect the desired results. The farmer owed to his newspaper the fact that he is getting today a liberal education in agricultural economics and research without leaving his doorstep."

President Hasselman, claiming better distribution of farm news than he ever has obtained under other program, outlined his practice of turning over to the Associated Press in Michigan all the news his agricultural specialists develop.

Bristow Adams of Cornell said his cooperation with The Associated Press in New York had resulted in some of his best work on agricultural problems and expressed the belief that the newspaper never will be superseded as an aid to farm extension work. Editors from Oregon, Kansas, Illinois and Virginia made similar observations.

SUCCESSOR TO GEO. BRENNAN WILL BE PICKED WEDNESDAY

Strong Contenders
for the Job

Chicago, Aug. 31—(AP)—Thomas F. Donovan, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, today notified all members of the committee that a meeting would be held in Springfield next Wednesday for the purpose of electing a member of the national committee to fill the vacancy caused recently by the death of George E. Brennan, committeeman for Illinois.

The meeting is to be held at the St. Nicholas hotel, and Chairman Donovan said other party matters likely would be taken up at the session. Among names that have been mentioned in discussing Mr. Brennan's successor were those of Michael L. Igoe, Melvin A. Traylor and Mr. Donovan. Mr. Igoe, minority leader in the state house and personal friend of the late Mr. Brennan, still appears to be one of the strongest candidates for the vacancy. News was spread that his name had been withdrawn from consideration but he issued a statement denying the withdrawal and emphasizing his candidacy for the national committee post.

Mr. Traylor, Chicago banker and sportsman, is a prominent Democrat and his name was mentioned in talk selecting a business man for the post.

The state chairman's activities within the party and his familiarity with the situation in the state also placed his name among those for consideration.

12 MARINES ROUT SANDINISTAS IN A NIGHT BATTLE

Rebels Ambushed Marines But Pay Dearly For It

Managua, Nicaragua, August 31—(AP)—Two Sandinistas were killed one wounded and five captured when the patrol of twelve Marines led by Captain George F. Stokes routed a band of forty rebels near Macueliz Tuesday. There were no casualties among the Marines.

Details of the engagement have been obtained by Marine headquarters here with great difficulty. Since there is no other means of communication, Captain Stokes conveyed the news to airplanes flying low over his encampment, by means of messages printed on a large panel spread upon the ground.

Miguel Angel Ortiz, who led the rebel band, attempted to ambush the Marines. The attack took place at 8 P. M., and despite facing a superior force armed with machine guns, Stokes' men routed the assailants and pursued them throughout the night.

CUT OFF LIQUOR

Managua, Nicaragua, August 31—(AP)—To avert disturbances in connection with the presidential elections Nov. 4, sale and possession of distilled liquor will be prohibited through Nicaragua during the registration and voting period.

The government has a monopoly of the "aguardiente" or native liquor supply and in previous times this was used freely in buying votes. The decree provides that all government distilleries and liquor warehouses are to be padlocked Sept. 1, and the keys deposited at the military police headquarters.

Fugitive Jailbird Was Prepared For Another Delivery

Chicago, Aug. 31—(AP)—George Jayhan, 28, who escaped from jail at Davenport, Iowa, by sawing his jail bars with an instrument fashioned out of two razor blades, was arrested here today and probably will grow a beard as Davenport officers who came for him said he would receive no more razors.

Jayhan said he worked two weeks making saws out of the razor blades and when arrested here he was prepared. The police found a pistol on him, they searched him again and found a hacksaw inside his belt. Further search revealed four hacksaws hidden in each shoe sole. In his room were 25 more blades as well as some novelty goods he said he obtained by holding up a novelty store in Dubuque, Iowa, on his way from Davenport to Chicago. Here he stole an automobile and was arrested while sitting in it.

HANGED TODAY FOR MURDER OF OWN DAUGHTER

Seattle Man Goes To Gallows Protesting Innocence

Walla Walla, Wash., Aug. 31—(AP)—Wallace C. Gaines was hanged today for the murder of his 22-year-old daughter, Sylvia, in Seattle two years ago.

Gaines went to his death protesting his innocence and unforgiving toward those who had prosecuted him. He walked unaided to the gallows.

Frank Novak, prison evangelist, who was closeted with Gaines for nine hours before the hanging, said he would make a statement as soon as he had recovered from the ordeal.

The murder of Miss Gaines, a graduate of Smith College and daughter of Gaines by his first wife, Mrs. L. E. Maynard of Lynn, field, Mass., occurred here on the night of June 16, 1926. The girl disappeared from her home about 8 o'clock that night and the next day her mutilated body was found on the shore of Green Lake.

Had An Alibi.

Testimony was offered at Gaines' trial that his daughter had been the object of his "strange, unnatural affections," and that when she attempted to break the relationship, he killed her while he was drunk. Gaines' present wife testified there was nothing unnatural in his affection for the girl.

Gaines offered as an alibi, testimony that he was with Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sterns, friends, at the time of the slaying. The Sterns corroborated his story.

After his conviction, there followed two years of legal maneuvering to save him from the gallows which included an appeal to the United States Supreme Court and petitions for clemency to Gov. R. H. Hartley.

JONES PLAYING A CONSISTENT GAME FOR WALKER CUP

Was Eleven Up On British Champ in This Morning's Play

Chicago, Aug. 31—(AP)—Bobby Jones defeated the British champion, T. P. Perkins, 13 up and 12 to go in the first of the eight singles matches for the International Walker Cup today.

BY BASIL G. WYRICK

(Associated Press Golf Writer)
Chicago, Golf Club, Chicago, Aug. 31—(AP)—Bobby Jones set a fast pace today in the single matches for the Walker cup with the British team, and scoring 36-34-70, despite a water penalty, took a lead of 11 up over T. P. Perkins, British champion.

None of the other matches were so one sided, and in some of the eight contests the Britons took a lead, but not big enough, but what it could be overcome in the afternoon, while some were wiped out before the morning round ended.

Jones, after missing a 5 foot putt for a par on the first hole, got 5 pars and two birdies before he flubbed a shot from the rough on the ninth hole to the pond, and took 6, while his opponent, being wholly off the game that won him the British title got only three perfect holes and took 42 strokes to the turn.

Smoking home Bobby scored every hole perfectly, except for a birdie 4 on the 527 yard 16th, while the Briton could not get his poise and took 41 for an 83.

Morning card:
Perkins in: 346 564 545—41—83
Jones in: 344 344 444—34—70
The ninth hole was the only one the British champion could win, and he halved only five. The American champion needed no spectacular shots, as aside from the first and the ninth he played well with all his clubs. He got down a couple fairly long putts, but he was seldom in serious trouble calling for startling recoveries.

The British champion committed every fault, even to going out of bounds on the 14th. He had only one 6 in his poor total but he took 5 on nine holes.

The large gallery that followed this match at the van of the others was pleased with the fine golf of the American titleholder, but got no thrill from the one sided contest. At that Jones' score was the first one in 10 rounds in which he has been as high as 70 and on this links he tallied his previous rounds in 68-67-68.

Dr. William Twedell, captain of the British team had better success than Perkins, scoring a good 73 and gaining a lead of 3 up over George Von Elm who took 41 for the second nine to total 77.

Beautiful Wedding at St. Peter's Thursday

At 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon at St. Peter's quaint old Episcopal church in Grand Detour, a beautiful wedding was solemnized. Rev. Richard H. Talbot, rector of the Episcopal church in Sterling officiating at the impressive ceremony which united the lives of Miss Pauline Kuhn, daughter of Mrs. Alma Kuhn of Dixon, and Leslie Gieritz of Elgin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gieritz, in the presence of relatives and a few invited friends, to the number of 40.

The church was decorated in green and white, with garden flowers and palms, the altar being a mass of gladioli and ferns, the ceremony being performed in the subdued glow of light from the old stained glass windows. St. Peter's is the second oldest church in the state, dedicated about 1850.

As the bridal party entered, Mrs. Arthur Panter who presided at the organ played the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin, and Miss Margaret Knick sang "Oh, Promise Me."

The petite bride wore a charming gown of white satin, bonifite style trimmed in old lace and rhinestones. Her veil was in cap effect with lilies of the valley. She wore white kid slippers, with rosettes of white satin and rhinestones. Her flowers were a shower bouquet of brides roses and white sweet peas. The bride and bridegroom were attended by groom as bridesmaid, and Herbert Miss Florence Gieritz, sister of the Covey as best man, both of Elgin. The bride who was Pauline H. Kuhn, attended the grade and high schools in this city, leaving for Elgin three years ago where she was employed. The bridegroom, Lester F. Gieritz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Gieritz, has resided in Elgin all of his life and is now holding a splendid position with the Charles Gieritz Construction Company.

The Dowager in Wednesday's Herald Examiner had the following interesting article. By the way, it is understood that the band of Indians referred to, has made Mr. Dawes an Indian Chief, a title of honor which plainly shows their liking for him. Mr. Dawes and his family are well known here where they have many friends. The Dowager says on her return from a delightful vacation trip:

"I never knew before that casting out a line for bass into calm and translucent waters, and casting out the telephone line for news into the declining Summer in Chicago, might be two such widely divergent occupations. Remembering one, the other is nothing less than hard work. Coming from a country where an Indian band was the only 'jazz' we heard in sixteen days, to hear the approaching rumble of the debutante dance orchestras of the next three months, is something of a bump into the more civilized realities."

Mr. Beaman Dawes, whose camp lights across Lake Manitowish, were the only ones we could see from our cabin, is the patron of the Indian band, and it was to him they went last Sunday to play and see if something couldn't be done about getting a new cornet and a new flute. Having heard them play, he decided that something would have to be done, and it is understood that, if only to keep the devotional spirit at vespers where they play on Sundays in the little Indian church, he will buy them new instruments. Mr. Dawes is brother to the Vice President.

Of the needs of the band and all other items of importance round about Manitowish and Wikemikong, on Manitowish Island, I was informed by one Mary Nomigose (Mary Trout in English), the little Indian girl who did the chores and who was, to all intents and purposes, the society editor of the unpublished daily paper of Eagle's Nest. If a cat got into a swallow's nest, Miss Nomigose knew it; if some one caught larger bass than ours, we heard of it immediately, and if the dinner table needed floral decoration for company, our social informant told us the best florist to get them from—the simple expedient of picking them ourselves from the woods. The same with the raspberries and blueberries we served for dessert—with what was almost Devonshire cream.

Short Interviews with Famous Women

By NEA Service

"The woman of today is learning how to co-operate with her own sex as never before," declared Elizabeth Cady Stanton, president of the National Association of American Women Painters and Sculptors.

"It is the second big stride in her emancipation," Miss Stanton continued. "I see evidence of this growth of co-operation among women at our headquarters."

"There our members meet to work together, exchange criticisms and plan group exhibitions. And through their shoulder to shoulder efforts they are making our organization of national importance to the art progress of the country."

"The outstanding successes attained by individual women in different lines of endeavor provide a noteworthy example of progress. But the co-operative efforts of women toward group accomplishment is of vastly more importance."

"When women learn not to let the small issues block the vision of the big ones, they will be more worthy than ever of the admiration of men."

Patriotic Colors Fly From Fashion's Mast

BY MARGARET GREEN

(Associated Press Fashion Editor)

Paris (AP)—Tri-colors have been seized upon by the designers of clothes, and flag colors are a rage. As yachting comes more and more to supplant golf at the exclusive sport, the flag-strung yachts of the Cote d'Azur are having a marked influence on color schemes for smart attire.

Madame Lanvin is among those who sponsor flag colors in scarfs, which add variety to simple frocks for vacation wear. Philippe et Gaston show a dress called "Pavillon," which has a band of tiny flags all around the blouse and one sleeve.

In the Nicole Groult collection are two flag dresses, "Drapeaux," which are made in red, white a blue and red, white and green disposed like the stripes of a flag. Poiret and Redfern are other houses that follow the tri-color idea.

Tri-color plaited tassels are a worth innovation. On a coat of dark blue asperic, with a standing collar are red, white and blue plaited crepe de chine tassels attached to the coat by means of a red enamel brooch, which is shaped like a greyhound. The white crepe de chine dress which matches the lining of the coat, has large navy polka dots and has the same tassels on the scarf-collar and belt.

Tri-color makeup for the eyes complements the patriotic color scheme. There is a dark green shadow paste for the upper eyelid, a light grey for the under lid and deep blue kohl for the lashes. No rouge, but brilliant lipstick is worn with the makeup.

Bridge Made Easy

OPENING BLINDLY—2

When your partner has not bid and the contract has been won with a declaration of a suit, your problem of opening the play is much more difficult than if the bid were no trump. Then you should choose the suit to be opened in the following preferential manner:

PAR LEAD. The most desirable of all openings is the lead of a suit containing top honors in most preferential sequence as A K Q J A K Q A K J A K 10, A K A K X K Q J K Q 10. The King is led from all of these holdings excepting A K in which combination the Ace is led and followed by the King. This is information to your partner that you hold no more of that suit.

BIG DRIVER. Second in preference of opening suits is the lead of a suit headed by Q J, as Q J 10 9, Q J 10, Q J 9 X. The Queen may drive out dummy's King and if your partner holds the Ace, the result of the play is the establishing of your remaining cards in that suit.

LITTLE DRIVER. Third in preference of opening suits is the lead of a suit headed by J 10, as J 10 9 8, J 10 8 X. The Jack may drive out dummy's Queen and if your partner holds the King, the result of the play is the establishing of your remaining cards in that suit.

ROYAL LEAD. The lead from K Q X X or K Q X or K Q is about as acceptable as the previous class. (Copyright, 1928, by the Ready Reference Publishing Co.)

"A RADIANT NORDIC AMAZON"

And now we begin to understand why it is that a poet or a musician can run rings about any other young man in the business of courtship.

Percy Grainger, well-known American pianist, is engaged to a Swedish girl, Miss Ella Pola Strom. Asked to describe her, he declared she is "a radiant Nordic Amazon, as beautiful as the morning"

So there. When a man can use phrases like that to describe his beloved, what chance has the ordinary man got? Many a girl would rather have a man who could talk that way than an articulate fellow who had a six-figure bank account.

CITIZENSHIP CLASSES

The Constitution Education Association is doing a good work by fostering citizenship classes throughout the country. The aims of the move, as set forth in an association bulletin, are:

"To develop a more enlightened public opinion; carry education beyond the schoolhouse door; diffuse education; perpetuate our institution; preserve the constitution and keep the ideas of the founders dominant."

Those are worthy aims. James Russell Lowell, the poet, once remarked that the American republic would endure "so long as the ideas of the founders continue to be dominant." The association's campaign should help to preserve them.

IT'S COMING SOME DAY

Not long ago we knew a little boy who was confident the world would come to an end on or about 1950.

He reasoned something like this:
When mankind has reached perfection, the earth's work will be finished and the whole affair might as well end. We have outgrown the savagery of our forefathers; liberty, freedom and soon have been established; all the biggest problems are just about solved. A few more years, and we will have heaven on earth. Therefore, the earth's days are numbered.

As he grew older the boy revised his estimate. The World War came and showed him that there were still a few things to be done before perfection would be at hand. Gradually he realized that the millennium "was a long way off." But even now, in the back of his mind, is the idea that it will be reached, sooner or later. He still is confident that some day all of our problems will be ironed out smoothly, although he no longer believes that he will live to see it.

It is rather astonishing, in a way, that we should look for a golden age in years to come. There is so much to be done. None of us will ever see more than a very minor improvement made. We will not be here to enjoy the Utopia for which we are working, nor will our children's children. Why, then, do we upset ourselves so about it?

It seems to be born in us, part of an heritage we cannot slough off. Most of us are not very admirable. We have gross selfishness, timidity, self-satisfaction and frivolity woven into our beings. But underlying them all is this desire to do what little we can to advance the golden age.

That is the one reason why we can be hopeful. Our progress may be glacial, but it is genuine. We have a right to dream our dreams of a day when war will be abolished, when poverty and crime have been forgotten, when slums do not exist, when true freedom reigns everywhere and ignorance is no more. Some day they will come true.

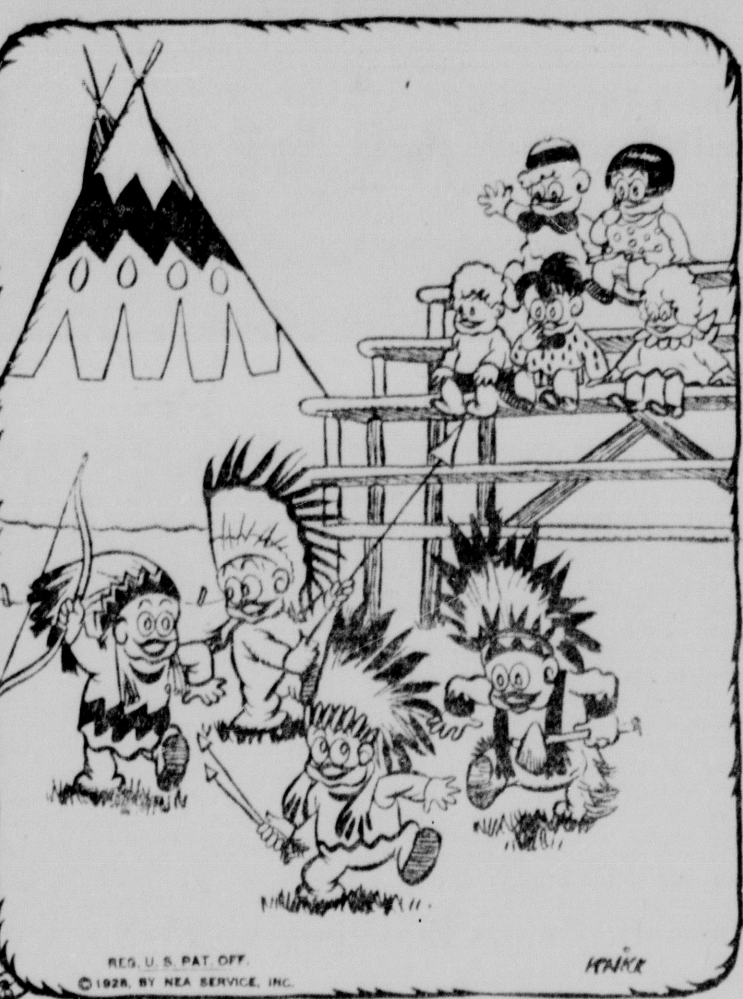

CROSSING THE SAHARA

For centuries the Sahara desert has been synonymous for all that was arid, desolate and unproductive.

In the not-so-distant future, however, we may have to revise our ideas. The French government is preparing to survey a route for a great trans-Sahara railroad, which would open up to the world markets the vast fertile hinterland of Niger region.

The Sahara itself, probably, will never grow much. But the French expect that their railroad spanning it would measurably increase their supply of agricultural products. The Sahara would cease to be a barrier.

THE ANYMITE STORY

When Carpy's feet again touched earth, he laughed for all that he was worth. "Well, what strikes you so funny?" queried Scouty, with a frown. "The balloons that took you up in air gave all the rest of us a scare. I don't see why you laugh, when you are lucky to be down."

Then Carpy said: "I'll tell you why. When I was up there in the sky, I, too, was scared to death, but now I see the funny side. I saw the cowboy throw his rope, and that, of course, gave me new hope. You all began to pull me down. 'Twas funny how you tried."

"And that's what I was laughing for. You would have too, so don't get sore." Then Carpy thanked the cowboy who had rescued him so nice. "It's fun to float in air," said he. "But on balloons—well, not for me. Before I try a stunt like that again I'll sure think twice."

"The circus trainer then came out, and all the Tinsies heard him shout, 'I have a brand new job for you."

This is a lucky chance. You all can dress in Indian suits, and run around mid shouts and hoots. Then, when the show is on tonight, you'll do an Indian dance."

"One Tiny cried, 'That's kind of you. I'll bet we'll make good Indians, too. Just lead us to the dressing tent where we can quickly change.' So, to the dressing tent they went, and about a half hour was spent in putting on their Indian clothes. Oh, my, but they looked strange."

"Wa-hoos! Wa-hoos!" the Tinsies cried, and then they all dashed right outside. Some other circus folks were there to greet the merry bunch. The trainer looked at them and said, "You're doing fine! Go right ahead. I'm glad I made you Indians. It was quite a happy bunch."

Green Says Unions Open Labor Fields

By WILLIAM GREEN
(President, American Federation of Labor)

Labor Day of 1928 comes with a new challenge to action. We have made progress, and that progress opens up opportunities that demand resourcefulness and perseverance. Let us meet the challenge with courage and that determined endurance necessary for achievement.

The Memorial Day set aside by national enactment to honor labor naturally becomes the time for taking account of achievements and planning for the future.

As taking account involves making comparison, one's mind turns backward over the early years of the trade union movement when our trade unions were virtually outlaw organizations.

Trade unionists who realize that individual workers had very little chance of a square deal from employers unless they could point out to employers which things were injustices and what better standards would be, have built up our trade union movement until now it is a respected national institution.

The year 1928 marks a new level of achievement in establishing the ideals of the labor movement. Let us, in appreciation of what this progress has cost in human suffering and privation and what it has gained for human well being, dedicate ourselves to the realization of greater progress in the coming year.

ILLINOIS NEEDS MANY HORSES TO FILL UP RANKS

Western Horses Will

Needs Here

Chicago, Aug. 31.—(AP)—More horses and mules will be sold for Illinois farm work between now and April 1, 1929, than during any similar period in the last fifteen years, Harry McNair of this city, regarded as one of the best informed horsemen in the United States said here today.

His prediction, he said, was due to the fact that decidedly less than half the horses are being raised in Illinois farm communities for normal replacement requirements.

"We are now confronted with abnormal replacement requirements," he said, "due to the fact that a larger proportion of horses on farms are fifteen years or older."

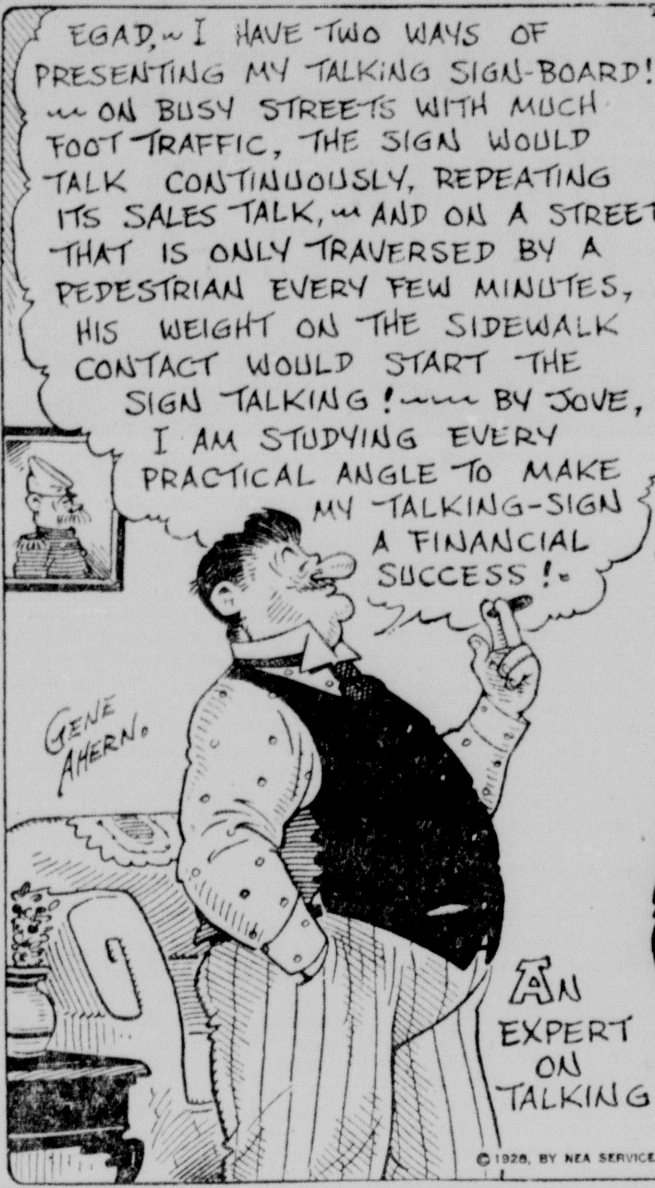

"Those that are broken and gentle will be gathered by horse shippers from points north and west mainly—The Dakotas, Wyoming, and Montana. They will send them into the principal horse markets, where they will be purchased by other dealers catering to farm trade in Illinois."

"Unbroken horses, however, are not wanted at any price, and men who own such unbroken animals can make triple ordinary farm wages by spending their time in gentling and breaking such animals to harness, so that they will be ready for sale next spring as a well broken farm 'chunks.' Work of breaking horses must be done carefully so that they are quiet, easily handled and are not 'snorty,' for if an animal shows signs of being wild when brought to sale it will result in his selling for 30 to 40 per cent less than he would otherwise receive."

"Wayne Dismore, Chicago, secretary of the Horse association of America, states that the place to break these horses in on the ranches where they are raised, and where they are being carried on cheap feed under natural conditions."

SEN. ROBINSON'S SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE DELIVERED IN HOT SPRINGS LAST EVE

Herewith is presented the speech of acceptance delivered last night by Sen. Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas, the Vice Presidential nominee of the Democratic party:

Mr. Robinson:

The attention of the public throughout the United States is being concentrated on political affairs to a degree of intensity never before known.

Voters are interested, not alone in the problems and issues with which the campaign is expected to deal, but also in the personal characteristics of the candidates.

The preliminary events of the contest indicate that in order to avoid bitterness, the leaders on both sides must display a sense of justice and fairness by refusing to become the beneficiaries of political influences and processes which they themselves are unwilling to employ. In this way, and in no other, may the poisons of slander and libel be counteracted and overcome.

The quadrennial political contest for which our elective system is notable presents an inspiring spectacle when conducted in accordance with high standards of ethics. No better evidence can be produced of the soundness of the Democratic theory of government than recognition of the right of the people to govern themselves through the selection of official representatives.

Numerous political serpents are hissing in the dark and striking from cover, and with venomous malice seek to poison the thoughts and arouse the prejudice of those who will decide issues of far reaching importance.

Sound public policy encourages full, frank and fearless discussion of issues and records. It discourages misrepresentation, perversion and falsehood. No end aimed at by an individual or a political organization can justify the secret or open employment of corrupt or otherwise dishonorable means. The spokesman of a party has the duty to tell the whole truth, and is justified in urging conclusions which his conscience approves, however distasteful or harmful they may be to the opposition. He proves himself unworthy if he knowingly accepts advantage from falsehood, even though not uttered or inspired by himself.

In the hope that frankness, sincerity and fairness may govern throughout the campaign, and that they may be tempered by the spirit of charity which constitutes the sublimest attribute of our Christian civilization, the discussion of the measures at issue is entered on in the belief that the wisdom of the voters will correctly and justly decide between the two great parties which present their candidates and platforms.

It will not be practicable in this address to touch upon all of the issues raised. Many subjects of importance necessarily are reserved for comment hereafter.

Agricultural Policy of

Democratic Party
Perhaps the most important issue in this campaign arises out of the attitude of the two major parties toward the problems affecting agriculture.

Both platforms recognize the distressed condition of the industry, and embrace promises, the relative value of which is apparent from a comparison of the two pronouncements.

The Republican platform on the subject of farm relief is not readily distinguishable from that of 1924 pledging the party "To take whatever steps are necessary to bring back a balanced condition between agriculture, industry and labor."

The farm problem had appeared in December of 1921, when President Harding requested the former Secretary of Agriculture Mr. Wallace to call a conference. The conference was held in January, 1921, and a resolution adopted calling upon the President and the Congress "to take such steps as would immediately re-establish a fair exchange value for all farm products with that of all other commodities."

The Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Wallace, took the lead in the preparation of a measure which has become widely known as the McNary-Haugen Bill. Prior to the national conventions of 1924 it was defeated in the House of Representatives, and consequently was not considered by the Senate during that session.

This was the situation when the promise of 1924 was made by the Republican party "to take whatever steps are necessary to bring back a balanced condition between agriculture, industry and labor."

To regain the confidence of the millions of voters who experienced disappointment in the failure of his party to keep its pledge, President Coolidge announced during the campaign of 1924 that he would call an agricultural conference to consider legislation for the next session of Congress.

The first report of this conference was transmitted by the President to the Congress January 28, 1925, embracing the following amazing recommendations:

"There must, therefore, be established a balanced American agriculture by which production is kept in step with the demand of domestic markets and with only such foreign markets as may be profitable."

Thus originated the doctrine of which Mr. Herbert Hoover, Republican nominee for President, became a champion, that agricultural production should be limited to the demands of our domestic markets.

This report also contained recommendations which the President strongly approved for legislation on the subject of cooperative marketing.

The legislation suggested followed the general line of the Capper-Williams Bill recommended by Mr. Hoover.

It met with opposition from all the principal farm organizations, and another Cooperative Marketing Bill was defeated in the House. However, was passed.

One of the principal distinctions between the two measures is that the administration bill placed cooperative marketing associations under government control, while the bill which passed the House gave the cooperatives certain government assistance with self-control. The latter bill was never brought to a vote in the Senate.

In the short session of Congress which expired March 4, 1924, the McNary-Haugen Bill, modified, was reported by the Committees on Agriculture in both the House and the Senate, but did not come to a vote in either body.

In the Pacific Ruralist of February 7, 1924, Secretary Hoover, outlining his views on the Agricultural question said:

"Generally the fundamental need is a balancing of agricultural production to our home demand."

This plan announced by Mr. Hoover for the alleged relief of agriculture, contemplated the contraction of the farm industry so that production in excess of the home demand would be eliminated, and the export field left entirely to the industrial exporter.

During the session of 1925-1926 the McNary-Haugen Bill was added as a committee amendment to House Bill 7893, to create a Division of Cooperative Marketing in the Department of Agriculture. The Amendment was defeated and the bill was passed as it came from the House.

Numerous other bills, perhaps fifty, designed to promote agricultural prosperity were introduced, but not one of them was strong enough to receive a vote in either house.

The 69th Congress passed the McNary-Haugen Bill by a vote of 57 percent of the Democrats and 52 percent of the Republicans. President Coolidge vetoed the bill.

During the last session the bill was modified to meet many of the objections urged by the President in his first veto message, and again passed both Houses by increased majorities. For a second time the President vetoed the bill.

This is a partial recapitulation of the events which disclose that throughout the last eight years the Republican party has admitted the urgent character of the agricultural problem. These facts prove also that the Republican party is either incapable of successfully dealing with the question or has deliberately violated its express promises to the farmers of the nation. It would seem that eight years have afforded ample time for action, and that a political organization which has had every opportunity which these years could bring to obtain beneficial results should not now be heard to ask for a renewal of its lease on power merely to repeat the old promises which have been so often broken. But the argument does not end at this point.

Mr. Hoover, as the President's trusted adviser, is perhaps more directly responsible for the failure of farm relief legislation during the eight years referred to than any other single political leader. His present position touching legislation for agricultural relief marks no material advance. In his speech of acceptance it is asserted:

"The most urgent economic problem in our nation today is in agriculture. * * * Differences of opinion as to both causes and remedies have retarded the completion of a constructive program of relief."

This language expressly recognizes the persistence of the problem and what is more significant, the failure of this party to advance "a constructive program of relief."

What are the methods suggested by the nominee for President in his interpretation of the Republican platform?

1. He asserts: "An adequate tariff is the foundation of farm relief." Will the farmers of the United States who have waited eight years for Mr. Hoover and his associates to serve them, accept the tariff as a remedy "for depression in farm products" whose domestic prices are controlled in markets not shielded by the tariff wall? Our farmers usually produce for export large quantities of wheat, corn, cotton and other staple products. Increased tariffs can afford no relief.

2. The next proposal in Mr. Hoover's acceptance speech is the development of inland waterways.

No political party opposes the improvement of rivers and harbors; but if the farmers of the United States must wait until transportation rates are sufficiently reduced by means of waterways to bring them prosperity, they may as well give up the fight and accept the humiliation and ruin which has threatened them throughout the last eight years.

3. The remaining feature of Mr. Hoover's plan for farm relief is the stimulation of cooperative marketing by advancing federal credits. The cooperative marketing system has long been recognized by many members of both parties as helpful, but if it is to be regarded as of controlling value in the solution of the farm problem, why have the administrations in which Mr. Hoover has served as a Cabinet Member failed to apply this remedy with promptness?

Many Special Values During

Contrast with this record of feebleness and failure the Democratic policy for the improvement of agriculture.

1. We repudiate Mr. Hoover's proposal to limit farm production to the domestic demand, as calculated to belittle, rather than to encourage the great industry of agriculture.

Wheat, cotton and other farm products have long contributed to the maintenance of our balance of trade. In 1927 we sold to other nations cotton amounting to $959,000,000; wheat sold abroad helped to swell our exports $324,000,000. If Mr. Hoover's suggestion should be carried out, hundreds of thousands of farmers and their families would lose their property and be driven from their homes, to swell even further the ranks of unemployment in the urban centers.

2. The Democratic party recognizes the right of farmers to lead in the development of farm problems.

One of the reasons the Republican party has failed is that it has relied on the judgment of politicians and rejected the opinions of men whose interests are associated with the farmers. They have prompted them to devote lifelong study to farm problems.

3. That adequate credit facilities and better administration of the Farm Loan system be assured in the interest of farmers.

The mismanagement of this system during the last few years has aroused the fears of many that it may be wrecked or its effectiveness greatly impaired if present policies are continued.

4. The necessity is recognized by the Democratic party for an organized agriculture through which the farmer may work out and apply his own remedies, as well as receive government aid, through a Federal Farm Board.

5. The creation of a Federal Farm Board and the financing of cooperative associations to deal with the crop surpluses.

While the equalization fee provided for in the McNary-Haugen bill is not expressly approved, the Democratic platform does recognize the principle of distributing the cost of operations with respect to surplus crops over the marketed units whose producers are benefited thereby.

If a more equitable and effective plan that that comprised by the equalization fee is discovered, it should be adopted. The time has come, however, when an economic adventure is justified in behalf of the millions who engage in that industry without which civilization could not survive. The Democratic nominee for President has committed himself to prompt and decisive action in accordance with the principles outlined in our platform.

Enforcement of Prohibition
There has always been room in the Democratic party for those who differ as to the best means of promoting temperance and of suppressing the traffic in alcoholic beverages. A proposal for changes in the existing national prohibition system, and also a resolution approving the 18th Amendment and the Volstead Act, were submitted to the Committee on Platform and Resolutions of the Houston Convention. Neither was adopted.

Both the committee and the convention, after prolonged hearings, recognized the futility of attempting to secure unanimity for either contention. The committee reported that the convention unanimously adopted a declaration to the following language:

"The Republican party, for eight years in complete control of the Government at Washington, presents the remarkable spectacle of feeling compelled in its national platform to promise obedience to a provision of the Federal Constitution which it has flagrantly disregarded and to apologize to the country for its failure to enforce laws enacted by the Congress of the United States.

"Speaking for the national Democracy, this convention pledges the party and its nominees to an honest effort to enforce the eighteenth amendment and all other provisions of the Federal Constitution and all laws enacted pursuant thereto."

This provision condemns the Republican party for insincerity in promising obedience to the 18th Amendment after having flagrantly disregarded for eight years that amendment and the law for its enforcement. The convention recognized that the Democratic party is neither a prohibition nor an anti-prohibition organization, but if entrusted with power its duty would be to enforce all laws.

To one who for twenty-five years has uniformly supported measures for prohibition, it has been disappointing to note the methods and agencies employed by the Republican party in the enforcement of national prohibition laws.

The question should not be treated as merely political, but rather as moral and economic. Some claiming to be reformers, have clouded the subject with confusion and misunderstanding. They have discredited the motives of those who display moderation and fairness in public discussions and have questioned the loyalty to the cause of temperance of all who are dissatisfied with present conditions.

President Wilson vetoed the Volstead Act. The integrity of his purpose was not questioned; his good faith was generally conceded.

The Democratic candidate for President, Governor Alfred E. Smith, declared in this telegram to the convention:

"The equal and even enforcement of the law is the corner stone on which rests the whole structure of Democratic government. If it is the will of the people of this nation that I am to take an oath as President of the United States to protect and defend our Constitution and laws, I will execute that oath to the limit of my ability without reservation or evasion."

This language is an unqualified acceptance of the obligation to enforce the law to the best of his ability.

Throughout the last two administrations the Prohibition Bureau has been under the Treasury Department, whose head, prior to national prohibition, was largely interested in the liquor business.

Mr. Vane, who thwarted the movement to "stop Hoover" at Kansas City and forced Mr. Hoover's nomination, claimed election to the Senate on a platform containing a single plank—the repeal of national prohibition.

Can it be said that because Governor Smith believes that, without returning to the old evils of the saloon, temperance and respect for law can be promoted through changes in the existing system, he is a nullificationist and an enemy of the constitution? Such arguments impeach the intelligence of their authors.

It is certain that only such modifications as meet with the approval of public opinion are possible, no matter who serves as President.

Having in mind that the law for enforcement of prohibition has been discredited because good faith efforts have not been made for its enforcement, the conclusion is asserted that a breakdown is not threatened by mere proposals for modification, but rather by indifference of the public to proper execution and by corruption and inefficiency of many enforcement officers. It is recognized that the people constitute the reservoir of all political power and have the right, in the constitutional manner, to call for changes in either or both the Constitution and the law. The Executive has no power to modify either. It is in no sense an attempt at nullification to suggest changes in the Constitution or the law. Nullification consists in refusal or willful failure to enforce.

To summarize, the Democratic party for or against modification. It does pledge the nominees to an honest effort to enforce the 18th Amendment and the laws enacted pursuant thereto. Governor Smith has promised his best efforts to enforce prohibition. His personal opinion that the law or the Constitution should be changed to make certain better observance and enforcement, does not affect his disposition or ability to perform that duty.

Merchant Marine
An adequate merchant marine is recognized by the Democratic party as essential to the safety of the nation and the independence of its commerce.

When it became apparent that the United States might become involved in the late World War, which began in 1914, her merchant marine had almost disappeared from the seas. President Wilson announced a policy which in the emergency met with general approval. The Democratic Congress gave effect to his recommendations and provided liberal appropriations for the construction of ships for the carriage of our commerce. Democrats have never advocated and do not favor, as a permanent policy, government ownership and operation of shipping lines if private enterprise will provide the funds and agencies required to give American shippers the necessary carrying service under our own flag. The Republican party has been quick to respond to private influences and the propaganda of our rivals in commerce, while Democrats have been concerned primarily with the interests of our own people. We have refused to approve reckless sacrifice and favoritism in the sale of vessels. We have insisted that the service of the United States Shipping Board shall be continued without discrimination against sections or ports until it becomes practicable to transfer the lines for private operation under conditions that will protect our commerce in peace times against discriminations which are certain to be imposed upon it if transported largely under foreign flags; and it must be made certain that in the event of war the merchant vessel, reasonably required as auxiliaries to naval operations, shall be available for prompt use without reliance upon the shipping facilities of other powers.

While the necessity for government ships continues, and until they can be transferred under satisfactory conditions for private operation, the service should be kept efficient and should be improved to meet competition with foreign lines and to provide for the expansion of our commerce.

Political Corruption
Honesty in public affairs is of transcendent importance. Corruption is the red signal of decadence. Corrupt elections breed dishonest public officers. That this issue exists is proved by the fact that both of the major parties have so declared in their platforms. That the platform makers at Kansas City dread the issue is shown in their effort to anticipate the declaration on the subject by the Democratic party.

While rare cases of fraud may be regarded as unavoidable in any business comparable in volume to that of the United States, it becomes a matter of general political concern when the party in power proves so derelict as to fail to prevent shocking and repeating departures from standards of common honesty in the transaction of the public business. The basis for the platform declaration referred to is found in notorious and criminal breaches of duty in several of the executive departments—instances which have come to light during the last seven years. The wholesale frauds perpetrated by Republican office holders since March 4, 1921, have permitted pledges in language which implies recognition of the necessity for reform.

In the Kansas City platform it is asserted by the Republicans: "We stand for honesty in government, for the appointment of officials whose integrity cannot be questioned." . . . If this principle had been applied by the Republican administration it would not have been necessary for the Senate to advise the discharge of an Attorney General who had flagrantly disregarded the obligations of his office and contributed to the pollution of the fountain of justice. The country would have been spared the spectacle of the Executive sustaining this faithless officer until public sentiment compelled his dismissal, and the dismissal would have been made without an expression of confidence in the faithless officer by the Chief Executive. If the reputation of the government had been duly safeguarded, there would have been no necessity for the Senate to urge the retirement of the Secretary of the Navy who had blindly approved the corrupt contract by which the nation's oil reserves were bartered to private interests through the bribery of a few cabinet officers, the Secretary of the Interior. Surely it is of greater consequence that a national administration shall sustain and justify the public confidence by the prompt dismissal of faithless cabinet officers than that the feelings of such officers shall be spared by retaining them in authority after their misconduct has been disclosed. Breaches of trust in the Veterans' Bureau and in the Alien Property Custodian's office; the secret exaction of enormous campaign funds from despoilers of the public domain; and the widespread sale of favors and appointments by patronage dispensers disclose conditions which should have been corrected long ago and which make the platform declaration of the Republican party for "honesty in government" and for "the appointment of officials whose integrity cannot be questioned" appear insincere and for the purpose of securing another lease on power.

The Democratic party, pledges itself to "rescue the government from those who have betrayed their trust by disgracing it," and supports its claim to the Republican maladministration with the record of our great Democratic President, Woodrow Wilson. During his presidency, the usual administrative responsibilities were added the duty of carrying on the greatest war of all times. Numerous committees of investigation created by the opposition after it had secured control of the Congress immediately of dishonesty on the part of any Democratic office holder.

Throughout almost four terms the Democratic nominee for President has served as Chief Executive of New York. During all his service the searchlight of hostile scrutiny has been thrown in full glare on his administrations. That Governor Smith's record has stood the test is evidence of that extraordinary executive ability and fearlessness required in a President of the United States, who is expected to safeguard the government against such thieves and crooks as have plundered it during recent years.

Campaign contributions and fair elections are intimately related to honest government. Were again both platforms recognize an issue.

The Republicans say: "Economy, honesty and decency in the conduct of political campaigns are a necessity if representative government is to be preserved to the people and political parties are to hold the respect of the citizens at large."

"The campaign of 1924 complied with all these requirements. It was a campaign, the expenses of which were carefully budgeted in advance and which, at the close, presented a surplus and not a deficit."

If the spirit of these declarations had governed, the former Chairman

Change to Shell Motor Oil—use it exclusively—and forget about motor overhauling. Your motor will still be running sweetly when new car fashions change and tempt you to trade.

A motor consistently lubricated with Shell Motor Oil seems never to wear out. It keeps running and running with tireless precision until changing styles and advanced engineering development make the car obsolete—and even then the motor is so good that the owner hates to give it up.

By adopting unusually liberal specifications—by selecting only those crude oils which are naturally adapted to lubricating purposes—by avoiding destructive heat refining—Shell Motor Oil has been given just the right moving. It is thin enough to reach every moving surface instantly—thick enough to meet any emergency that may arise in modern highspeed motoring.

of the Republican National Committee could not have secretly extorted or received from a beneficiary of the naval oil lease large amounts in Liberty Bonds for the payment of a deficit coming over from the 1920 campaign and without the payment of which the budget of 1924 could not have been balanced without disclosing the arrangements which would have forfeited public confidence in the campaign methods of the Republican party. The secret procurement of Liberty Bonds derived from a corrupt business transaction in oil, and the effort by the former Chairman of the Republican National Committee to distribute the bonds among cabinet officers, Senators and other Republicans of great prestige, the deliberate concealment of the plan from the concealment of the investigation disclose any deficit in campaign expenditures and to keep the public fully advised of the sources of campaign funds.

Attention is now directed to another declaration in the Republican platform:

"There will not be any relaxing of resolute endeavor to keep our elections clean, honest and free from taint of any kind. The improper use of money in governmental and political affairs is a great national evil."

This provision is amusing in the light of recent history. It implies that a determined effort heretofore has been made to "keep elections clean" and to prevent the improper use of money. The implication is contradicted by the facts.

The safety of our political institutions depends on fair elections and honest government. You may never expect clean government if nominations or elections are to be bought and sold. Of course, such methods do not meet with approval by the majority of the Republican party. Many Republicans condemn the indifference of their leaders to the ignominious record mentioned—a record which never could have been made if the watchmen on the towers had not fallen asleep.

The Democratic party invites the cooperation of all who desire the administration of national affairs reformed in accordance with the principles set forth in its platform.

Mr. Chairman Bowers, and ladies and gentlemen of the Committee.

the nomination for Vice President is accepted with sincere appreciation of the honor and the responsibilities that are associated with it.

Bowers Address
Address of Claude G. Bowers, formally notifying Senator Robinson of his nomination.

At Houston we witnessed the mobilization of the army of Democracy. The ceremonies tonight close the preliminaries before the battle. Tomorrow comes the thunder of the guns; and in November the pean of the triumph of our cause.

We come from the National Convention to the State of Augustus Garland to place the commission of command in the hands of a militant son of Arkansas who has richly earned the admiration and affection of millions of Americans from sea to sea. We bid him go forth to battle for the fundamental principles of the party that are rooted in the finest traditions of our people.

All the fundamental principles of Democracy may be concentrated on a page. Take the preamble of the Declaration of Independence, the whole of the Bill of Rights, and the historic passages from Jefferson's first inaugural address and you have all the elements of the party's faith.

Never have these fundamental principles been more generally ignored or renounced in administration than they are today. The imperative need of the hour is for less centralization and more self-government, less bureaucracy and more democracy, less intricacy in the governmental machinery and more of the simplicity of common sense, less red tape and more red blood, less privilege and more equality, less cynicism and a greater capacity in Federal officials for righteous wrath and instant action when corruption appears in the public service.

The nation has suffered during the last seven and a half years from the lack of courageous and constructive action. We need a real leadership that is inherent in the man, and not that which is dependent on the printer. With a depreciation of thirty billion dollars in the value of farm lands and equipment in five years of this administration, the failure to find a remedy is a confession of incapacity in constructive statesmanship.

But our indictment of the failures of the present regime is not based wholly on the lack of constructive ability, but in part on the unresponsiveness of the heart. It was the problem of the tillers of the soil; it was downright wicked to manifest no sympathy with the farmers plight. And that brings us to another need—the injection of more of the human spirit into the processes of government. We have been living under a regime which assumes that the functions of government are confined to the keeping of books, the collecting of taxes and the paying of bills. We are hungering today for men in power who know that the primary function of government is to contribute to the happiness and comfort of men, women and children.

Thus we propose to humanize government, and make it an organized agency of human welfare.

And we enter the campaign with confidence since we have the cause, we have the principles, we have the incentive, we have the will, and through such leaders as we have summoned to the bearing of the standard we shall find the way.

In the Houston Convention we placed the supreme command in the hands of a man of the people who has captivated millions by a rare combination of the qualities of mind and heart. We need not rely on printers ink to humanize our candidate, for nature made him human and humane. He has demonstrated an unquestioned genius in statecraft. He has the eye of a realist, and he recognizes problems when he sees them. He has vision,—and he finds a plan for their solution. He has constructive initiative, and he puts it into form. He has courage and honesty,—and he submits it to the people. He has the red blood of a two-fisted fighting man and he fights it through. And that is the reason that he has literally made over the governmental machinery of New York, given a new dignity to State sovereignty, and written his name indelibly into history as one of the greatest creative forces among all the brilliant and able executives of a mighty commonwealth.

Having selected one of the distinguished leaders of the north, the Convention turned for his running mate to the section that has been prolific in leaders and political thinkers since long before the establishment of the republic. It is the section that gave us the sword of Washington, the philosophy of Jefferson, the constructive genius of Madison, the foreign policy of Monroe, the democracy of Jackson. I know of nothing so utterly without rhyme or reason as the exclusion for generations from the two highest honors of the nation of the statesmen this section, and this ceremony is all the more historic, and gratifying to this committee because it has the honor of bearing a commission of leadership from the Democracy of the nation to one of the most gifted and thoroughly tested of the sons of the South.

Your fellow Democrats turned to you, Senator Robinson, because of your seasoned statesmanship, your established leadership, the robust quality of your democracy, the Jeffersonian character of your political concepts, and your fine fidelity to American ideals. They have noted with increasing respect and admiration to your position in the Senate on the corruption that has shamed our people, and toward those knocking for admission at the Senate door with tainted credentials in their hands. You have stood for the ideals of the nation, for the conscience and the liberties of the people, and for a militant championship of those principles and policies that we believe essential to the welfare of the state.

In presenting you with this notification and commission, the highest testimonial of public confidence, and bidding you go forth to battle for the cause, we know that in accordance with your custom, you will fight the good fight, and keep the faith, and contribute mightily to the inevitable victory in November.

The drabness of London has long been proverbial and buildings which contain any touches of color are few and far between.

The last passenger pigeon in the world died not long ago of old age in the New York Zoological Gardens.

Good Thoughts for Good People

GOOD THOUGHTS FOR GOOD PEOPLE

In thee, O Lord, do I put my trust; let me never be ashamed; deliver me in thy righteousness. For thou art my rock and my fortress; therefore for thy name's sake lead me, and guide me. Be of good courage, and he shall strengthen your heart, all ye that hope in your Lord.

How calmly may we commit ourselves to the hands of Him who bears up the world!

He has not learned the lesson of life who does not every day surmount a fear.

Ye messengers of Christ! His sovereign voice obey; Arise, and follow where He leads, And peace attend your way.

Courage is, on all hands, considered an essential of high character.

Precipitous action needs to be guarded against, and moral courage is an excellent brake on all activity which is untimely or ill-considered. With courage begotten of the knowledge of the absolute stability and reliability of Principle, the ailment of good and the unreality of evil, one can wait until divine wisdom dictates the best course of action and the best time for action.

Chicago. Aug. 31—(AP)—"Where do you think you're going to a fire?" yelled Policeman W. E. Mays, more irked than usual because his machine had crashed into a tree.

But the speeder, who yesterday was caught galloping down Lake Street in excess of the speed limit, said nary a word in retort.

"You'll get a ticket for this," May continued as he arrested perhaps the first horse ever to be thus reprimanded.

Without rider or harness, Dobbin had escaped from a fire station, passed up several stop lights and even persisted in his forbidden pace when

NEW STAR LOOMS ON HORIZON OF PUGILISTIC SKY

San Francisco Negro Knocked Out Dundee, Welterweight Champ

BY CHARLES W. DUNKLEY

(Associated Press Sport Writer)
Chicago, August 31.—(AP)—The closest approach to the immortal Joe Gans flashed menacingly over the pugilistic horizon today.

The new star is young Jack Thompson, sleek looking young San Francisco negro, who last night caused a startling upset by knocking out Joe Dundee, the world's welterweight champion, in the second round of their scheduled ten round battle in the White Sox park. Thompson is the welterweight titleholder in fact if not officially only because of a weight technicality.

The only reason Thompson is not proclaimed champion today was because Dundee forced him to weigh 148 pounds, one-pound over the welterweight limit.

Thompson, in conquering the welterweight king, made a tremendous impression. He seems to have inherited the great skill of his famous fellow man, Gans. He possesses a sterling combination of a perfect boxer and a terrific two-handed puncher. His style is strikingly like the old lightweight master.

The San Francisco negro proved that he is fast and clever and has that Holman punch like the famous lightweight king of two decades ago. He revealed these sterling qualities when he knocked Dundee down twice in the second round and stood there waiting to deliver the finishing punch when Referee Eddie Purdy stepped between them and stopped the uneven battle. Purdy's action gave Thompson a technical knockout victory, but actually Dundee was out on his feet when Purdy carried him to his corner.

The spectacular negro has been in Chicago for two months, winning his three matches with ease. He came to the middle west after failing to get matches on the coast because nobody desired to be tossed into the ring with him.

Watching the Big Scoreboard

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The open season on pennant contenders is here again. The last month or so of the baseball season usually is full in drama for it's then that cellar or near-cellar dwellers delight in knocking the props from under pretenders to baseball's two major crowns.

The Boston Braves, notorious in the last few years for their ability to take the wind out of sails apparently set for a pennant winning cruise, crushed the New York giants in three straight games this week in a series that saw most of the fight gone from the clan McGraw just when it needed a few victories to bolster its shattered confidence. The fall of the Cincinnati Reds from the heights they held earlier in the year in the national league dates to a series they played against the last place Phillies. The Reds lost four straight at that time and their play for weeks afterwards was below form.

Yesterday the Philadelphia Athletics and the New York Yankees, fighting a two-club battle for the American League pennant, were cut down by foes they should defeat with little trouble. The Yanks bowing to the Washington Senators and the A's to the last place Boston Red Sox. These reverses left the A's two and a half games back of the defending champions.

"Sad Sam" Jones, who once did his pitching chores for Miller Huggins, was the immediate cause of the Yankees defeat at Washington. Sam allowed the champions 7 hits, won his game, 3 to 1 and would have had a shutout had not George Herman Ruth took it into his head to hit his 47th homer of the year in the 7th inning.

Relief pitchers, in the end, decided the issue at Philadelphia where the A's were forced to accept a 3 to 2 reverse by the Red Sox.

Detroit took the final game of the season from the Cleveland Indians, 5 to 3, clubbing Willis Hudlin for three runs in the first inning.

The National League's crucial series between the St. Louis Cardinals, the leaders, and the Pittsburgh Pirates, one of the many contenders, developed into a fizzle temporarily for rain halted the clash after the first inning had been played. The Cards were leading then, 2 to 0.

The Chicago Cubs took undisputed possession of second place and advanced to within five games of the Cardinals by downing the Cincinnati Reds, 2 to 0, in a battle ended by rain at the end of six innings of play. The Reds, as a consequence, dropped back to a fourth place tie with the Pirates. The Cubs won the game in the fifth inning when they put together a double, triple and a sacrifice fly for both their runs. Charlie Root gave the Reds only four hits, one less than Eppa Rixey allowed.

The Braves kept up their winning streak by defeating the Phils, 6 to 5. Bell's double with the bases full in the sixth inning being the decisive blow of the game.

During the day, Judge Emil Fuchs, president of the Braves, announced that Rogers Hornsby had signed a

SWIMMING FROM THE STANDPOINT OF HEALTH
By G. VIVIAN, Detroit, Michigan.
Swimming Instructor, Detroit A. C.

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. President Coolidge is the honorary president of the Gorgas Memorial, which has its headquarters at 1331 G. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

Swimming as a healthful recreation and a sport is at last coming into its own. There are many reasons for this. Possibly the principal reason is the fact that a swimming pool is built in nearly all the larger schools in the cities. A swimming coach is engaged, regular classes formed, and interest is sustained by the development of a swimming team to compete with other schools in the vicinity. Indeed, swimming is included in the curriculum of many schools, and the pupils must have a certain degree of proficiency to graduate.

Another phase in the development of swimming is the fact that no large up-to-date office building is considered complete without having a swimming pool included.

In regard to the health aspect, swimming is a mild and invigorating exercise, except of course in the case of strictly competitive swimming. Unlike many other forms of exercise, swimming leaves one refreshed and stimulated. It develops supple and shapely bodies, and is a wonderful developer of the lungs.

There is still in some quarters a prejudice against swimming on account of the danger of drowning. Fortunately, however, this fallacy is being rapidly dispelled. We will admit that occasionally a swimmer drowns, but in many cases it is on account of a weak heart. He might have died while walking in the street. An appalling number of drownings are due to boats being upset, and those in the boat being unable to swim. Many of these unfortunate deaths could be avoided if the proper method of resuscitation were more generally known. Seconds count in a drowning accident and if more persons were experienced in this method there would be a decrease in fatalities. This method is recommended because it is the most effective imitation of natural breathing and it utilizes the diaphragm and muscular elasticity. One person can do all that is necessary. I think it would be an advanced step if swimming instructors would include some instruction in this method when teaching their swimming classes.

Relief pitchers, in the end, decided the issue at Philadelphia where the A's were forced to accept a 3 to 2 reverse by the Red Sox.

Detroit took the final game of the season from the Cleveland Indians, 5 to 3, clubbing Willis Hudlin for three runs in the first inning.

There will be about two cupfuls of the cooked rice, to which add one cupful of cooked and mashed spinach. Mix together thoroughly, put into a casserole, and bake for fifteen or twenty minutes tightly covered. Remove cover and place under broiler flame until slightly crisped on top. Serve each portion with a lump of butter.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: Jeanette W. asks: "Is it possible that a child will be deformed because of the mother harboring morbid thoughts about it being born without an arm or leg, or do not such thoughts have any effect on the child?"

ANSWER: Most medical authorities agree that a mother cannot produce a deformity in her unborn child through harboring morbid thoughts. Most mothers will not believe this, and will tell you of birthmarks produced through fear, worry, anxiety, etc. I am personally convinced that the temperament and intelligence of the child is affected to some degree by the mental condition of the mother, but there is no evidence that physical abnormalities will develop from the effect of the mother's mind.
